

Jasper Evans: Enigma

Chapter 1 – Evans

Everything about me kept getting better and my family always believed in me. When I got accustomed to that...

Rush

South Africa

October 29th, 2010

Captain Wall had enough of the predicament he had been placed in. Eyes up, he had been meaning to let his own insanity place him at a better pacing in his worrying. Local authorities had been outwitted by him. It made complete sense because he was our town's best defender at the time. It wasn't a wild goose chase. It was just a day where you had to go home but you had to keep your television on and witness what happened because with enough swerves, Wall could drive through your yard while hanging onto his attempt of escaping with the cargo. What was the cargo? An actual flying car that could not actually fly yet but there was progress. Wall entered the longest street in our city and two other muscle cars drove besides him. The truck could not be stopped. I had seen enough and I just rushed out of the living room. My parents turned to me as I did. I went into our garage and, in an unhesitant way, got onto my motorbike then I placed on my helmet then I sighed heavily then I switched it on and backed up then drove off. Wall had stopped after his turn and he went on his radio.

"Thank you for being my best friends." said Captain Wall. He said that and revved the truck filled with the cargo. Cargo that needed to be delivered by him. The raid seemed too rehearsed. Cop cars all swerved into the road and the walking, breathing badges all stepped out and aimed at the truck. Wall didn't break a sweat. He had been under pressure for as long as he breathed.

"You do not have to do this." said Commissioner Viljoen. He said so sincerely in the speaker system provided. Wall felt himself become brittle emotionally. So much weighed in on him. He felt a sensation of his tears gathering. What did he have to lose? Marriage? No...that would be weird. All of us have seen that he and his wife of 25 years had always been smitten for each other. Just to be honest – I had problems with the concept of kidnapping and that had happened in the most unsuitable circumstances. Forced to silence, Wall had been under the mercy of an urban legend who had enough notoriety to match a tsunami bombarding a coastal shore while in a calm Summer day.

"Keep the party going." said a voice in Wall's earpiece. He had instructions.

"I want you to remember that I believe in you and your cause." I said. The love interest and I rushed to my car.

"My brothers always believe in me and our cause." I said.

"You have always been my best friends." I said. I punched the main villain.

"My team and I have to defeat you." I said. I rushed to the main villain.

"The main villain told me about his cause." I said. The main villain punched me.

"Haugler told me about the main villain's cause." I said. I entered the love interest's home. I chuckled at Haugler.

"The love interest and I got used to living together." I said. The main villain nodded at the love interest and I.

"You have to trust me." I said.

"Thank you for trusting me." I said. The love interest and I kissed.

"I have to remain alive in order to stop him." I said.

"Haugler wants to be our my ally." I said. Amy nodded at me.

"My knighthood held me establish my heroism and heroics." I said. I nodded at Amy.

"Your coup reminds me of my granddad's home." I said. Haugler chuckled.

"Ouch..." he replied. I sipped from my water bottle calmly.

"No animosity?" he asked.

"No strangers." I responded. It could be simplified.

"All of you know each other personally and that means all of you will do anything

"I want your country to be well." I said. Haugler nodded at the main villain.

"I want you to give up." I said. I tripped the main villain. The main villain punched me.

"I love my team." I said. I blocked the main villain's punch.

"I can be defeated but that means that you have to be better than me." I said. The love interest nodded at the third villain. The love interest kicked the female villain then tripped her.

"My team and I can defeat him." I said. The main villain turned to the female villain then nodded at her.

"I admire your cause." I said.

"Enigma always helps me." I said. I rushed to the secondary villain. I punched the secondary villain.

"My allies always believe in me." I said. The secondary villain nodded at me.

"I am returning to my home with the plot device." I said. The secondary villain rushed to me then tackled me. I got up then rushed to my lab.

"I give up." I said.

"I told my family everything about Enigma." I said. The secondary villain blocked my punch.

"The plot device helped the main villain with defeating my team and I our team." I said. The main villain nodded at the secondary villain, the third villain and the female villain. I chuckled at the main villain.

"Kennedy told me about the secondary villain." I said. Kennedy nodded at me.

"I have to end their war." I said. I nodded at Kennedy.

"He can kill me." I said. I pulled out my gun and aimed at the secondary villain. Kennedy got up. I jumped to the love interest and pushed her then missile went pass past us.

"I always needed Enigma." I said. I rushed to my family. I turned to the love interest and nodded at her.

"I have defeated because of Enigma." I said. The love interest nodded at me.

"He needs his army." I said.

"I can end your reign." I said. I removed my helmet then held it.

"Tell me everything about them." I said. I placed on my helmet.